

SPECULUM

THE EYE OF THE BEHOLDER

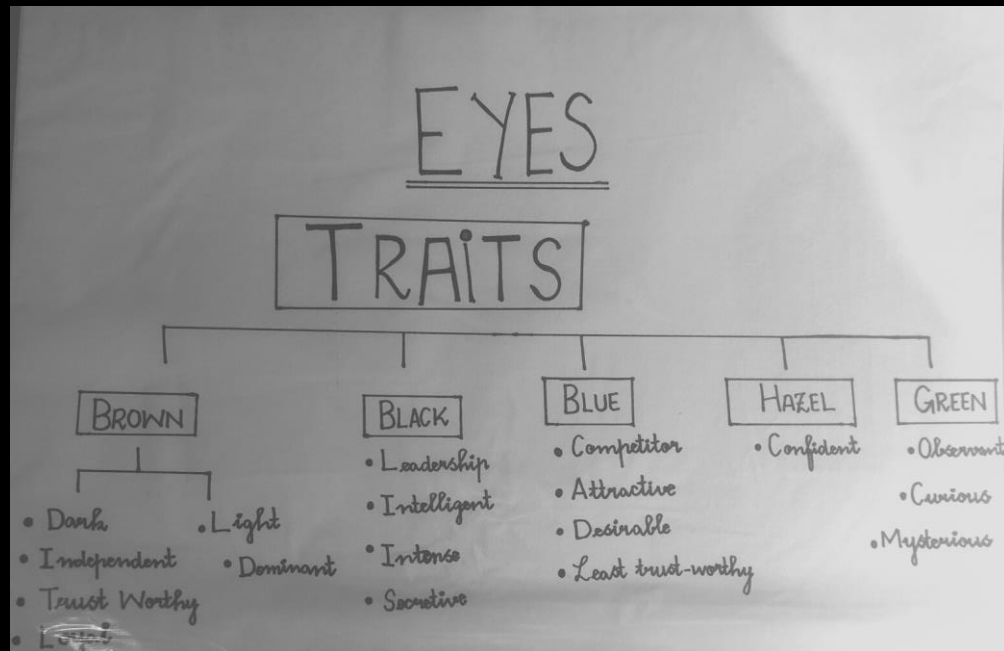

Presented by Sohaira Aziz

Abstract

Driven by the proverb 'beauty lies in the eye of the beholder', the road to creating Speculum was paved by a desire to study not only the concept of beauty in one's surroundings but the way the device with which that beauty is perceived (i.e. the eyes) embody it. Like a glass is recognized for the fluid it contains, the eyes reflect the beauty they perceive in the world. This perception is purely sensory meaning it occurs through the engagement of one or more of the five human senses. The most immediate of these senses is one's sight and that is what drove me to study the human eye in my quest to talk about the perception of beauty. I began to see the structure of the human eye as the mirror image of all that one is able to experience in the world with their eyes. Speculum is a series of home embellishments ranging from cushions to table runners to lamps embellished with the patterns I derived from my introspective understanding of this idea. In creating a series of home embellishments, I wanted to carry forward the idea of a mirror image projecting an idea first from the human consciousness onto the vessel of its perception (i.e the eyes) and then its projection back onto one's most private environment (i.e one's home). Each piece is digitally printed and then hand-embroidered to depict various emotions and elements in each kind of stitch being incorporated

Mind Map

Initial Research

Iris Story & Origins

- The iris is represented in Greek mythology. Iris was the goddess of the rainbow and a messenger for Zeus and Hera, and many believe that the flower is named after her. She carried messages from heaven to earth on the arc of the rainbow, and was a companion to female souls on the way to heaven. To this day, Greeks plant purple irises on women's graves so that Iris will guide them to their resting place in heaven.
- The iris commonly means wisdom, hope, trust, and valor. It can be found in a variety of temperate zones around the world, as such, its meanings have been adapted to fit various cultures.
- During the 16th century BC, irises were introduced to Egypt from Syria, and stylized versions of these flowers began to decorate the scepters of pharaohs as representations of victory and power.
- The iris inspired the fleur-de-lis, a decorative symbol used by French royalty. It originated in the Middle Ages. During this time the fleur-de-lis became tied to the French Monarchy, and appeared on their coat of arms, coins, and shields. Some believe that the three petals represented the three social orders: nobility, clergy, and peasants.

Iris Symbolism & Colors

Associating irises to the goddess of the rainbow like the Ancient Greeks did is fitting because there are over 200 species of irises that come in a wide variety of colors. Specific iris symbolism depends on the flower color:

- Purple irises symbolize royalty and wisdom.
- Yellow irises symbolize passion.
- Blue irises symbolize faith and hope.
- White irises symbolize purity.

Iris Cultural Significance

The beauty of irises inspired many artists. One of the most notable works on irises is Van Gogh's Irises. In this piece, he carefully studied the flowers to capture their unique twisting and curving lines.

- Iris Facts

The iris is the state flower of Tennessee, and is also the February birth flower and the 25th wedding anniversary flower.

Most iris varieties bloom in early summer.

Irises have three large outer petals called falls, and three inner upright petals called standards.

Iris Uses

- Around the nineteenth century, especially in Italy, orris roots, the roots of germanica and pallida species, became an integral part of the perfume industry. These roots, when left out to dry, develop a violet-like scent, which improves over time. Because of its pleasant smell, orris roots were used in many cosmetics until people noticed that it caused allergic reactions. Today, the roots are often used in potpourris and sachets.
- Orris roots were also used for medicinal purposes as an antiseptic, anti-inflammatory, and for teeth and skin health.
- With its great diversity of colors and meanings, irises are great gifts for all types of people in your life. You can give purple irises to a parent or mentor, yellow irises to a significant other, and blue irises to someone who needs a little extra encouragement.

Brown Eyes

- Between 55 and 79 percent of people worldwide have brown eyes.
- Brown is the most common eye color.
- Dark brown eyes are most common in Africa, East Asia, and Southeast Asia.
- Light brown eyes are found in West Asia, the Americas, and Europe

Traits

- Dominating, independent Light brown
- Lighter inside darker outside

Dark Brown

Traits

- Loyal,
- Trust worthy
- Sensitive
- Darker inside out

Blue Eyes

- Between 8 and 10 percent of people worldwide have blue eyes.
- Blue eyes are most common in Europe, especially Scandinavia. People with blue eyes have the same genetic mutation that causes eyes to produce less melanin.
- The mutation first appeared in a person living in Europe about 10,000 years ago. That individual is a common ancestor of all blue-eyed people today.
- You might see better at night if you have blue eyes, but you might also have more trouble with glare.

Dark Blue

Traits

- Attractive
- Desirable

Research Boards

Artist Research

Marc Quinn

- Contemporary artist whose work revolves around the way of living of a human being in this world.
- He made series of artwork on human iris.
- The reason of his series on iris is to comment on the paranoid world we live in.
- Eyes are the only internal organ that can be seen from outside, and are the window through which we can interact each other.
- His work investigates about the boundaries between art, nature and the man made.

Felix Mayrl and Olivier Colin

- Two Germany based photographers who are creative heads at photographic collective "Kollektiv-Lumen".
- Eye AM art-Eye AM you
- According to them iris is a human prism that reflects immense beauty and diversity of humans all around the world.
- By outlining the uniqueness of individuals they both aim at weaving a connection between all humans.

Artist board

Survey

 7 January 20h ✕

What do you look in a person??

Type something....

Seen by 109

Share

Highlight

More

 7 January 19h ✕

How do you judge a person in first glance??

Type something....

Seen by 105

Share

Highlight

More

18:3452%

Responses

Pleasant looking

Reply

How humble that person is

Reply

atiqu_ur_rehman

Maaaa

Reply

salman_a_haider

Ikhlq of person

Reply

salmanzk

personality nai you shakal doesn't matter

Reply

ambreeza.chaudry

Beautiful soul

Reply

kiabakwashaiyaaar

Simplicity I guess or be who you are

Reply

lunasnocturne

By their expressions

Reply

manan114

By the way they dress and speak

Reply

alinaqi007

The action he does .

Reply

alinaqi007

It's Moral vAlues

Reply

fatima_balooocchh

Its kinda weird but on their gestures because actions say alot

Reply

zahrahumayun

Features and height

Reply

talharehman1

Way of talking

Reply

alizeh2612

Their smile, their dressing, their Behavior with others

Reply

18:3352%

Responses

lunasnocturne

Simplicity

Reply

manan114

You

Reply

hoorafatyma

We can't judge in a first glance I think

Reply

rababq97

Talk. Walk. Interets and opinions. Mainly how and what they talk about. Also if they dress extreme

Reply

alinaqi007

I don't judge beauty by face but its shows by nature.

Reply

fatima_balooocchh

My idea of beauty is the beauty of within

Reply

mishaalsaqlain

How they treat those lower than them

Reply

beenishwaseem_

By their dressing sense

Reply

zahrahumayun

Beauty is felt more than it's seen

Reply

talharehman1

Morals

Reply

ammar_jamshed

On how much they talk

Reply

atiqu_ur_rehman

Bol chal or uthana bethna

Reply

alizeh2612

A beautiful soul is a beautiful person.

Reply

saroshq_

Mind

Reply

salman_a_haider

Harkaton sy

Reply

salmanzk

Clothes lol

Reply

Brain

Reply

An accepting and not expecting personality

Reply

mishaalsaqlain

Humility

Reply

ammar_jamshed

How he/she treat others

Reply

atiqu_ur_rehman

Behaviour

Reply

salmanzk

being genuine. I think we all have built in bs detectors that van make or break our perception of someon

Reply

ambreeza.chaudry

How they give you a respect

Reply

kiabakwashaiyaaar

There behaviour towards me

Reply

18:35

51%

Responses

How they treat those lower than them

Reply

By their dressing sense

Reply

ammar_jamshed

On how much they talk

Reply

atiq_ur_rehman

Bol chal or uthana bethna

Reply

salman_a_haider

Harkaton sy

Reply

salmanzk

Clothes lol

Reply

ambreeza.chaudry

The way they talk

Reply

18:34

52%

Responses

hoorfatyma

The beautiful soul

Reply

rababq97

Pehle andar se beauty honi chahiye.

Reply

mishaalsaqlain

Pleasant looking

Reply

ammar_jamshed

How humble that person is

Reply

atiq_ur_rehman

Maaaa

Reply

salmanzk

personality nai you shakal doesn't matter

Reply

salmanzk

personality nai you shakal doesn't matter

Reply

18:34

52%

Responses

salman_a_haider

Ikhlq of person

Reply

ambreeza.chaudry

Beautiful soul

Reply

ambreeza.chaudry

How they give you a respect

Reply

18:32

52%

Responses

ammar_jamshed

How he/she treat others

Reply

salmanzk

being genuine. I think we all have built in bs detectors that van make or break our perception of someon

Reply

ambreeza.chaudry

There behaviour towards me

Reply

18:35

51%

Responses

hoorfatyma

We can't judge in a first glance I think

Reply

rababq97

Talk. Walk. Interets and opinions. Mainly how and what they talk about. Also if they dress extreme

Reply

mishaalsaqlain

How they treat those lower than them

Reply

beenishwaseem_

By their dressing sense

Reply

ammar_jamshed

On how much they talk

Reply

atiq_ur_rehman

Bol chal or uthana bethna

Reply

salman_a_haider

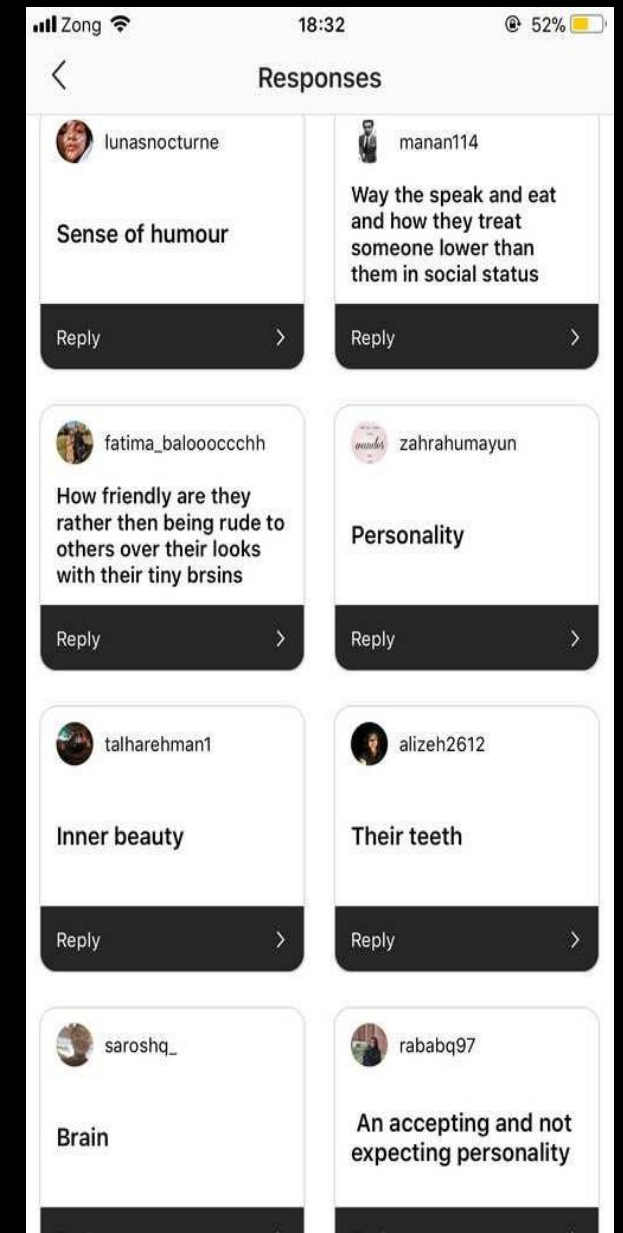

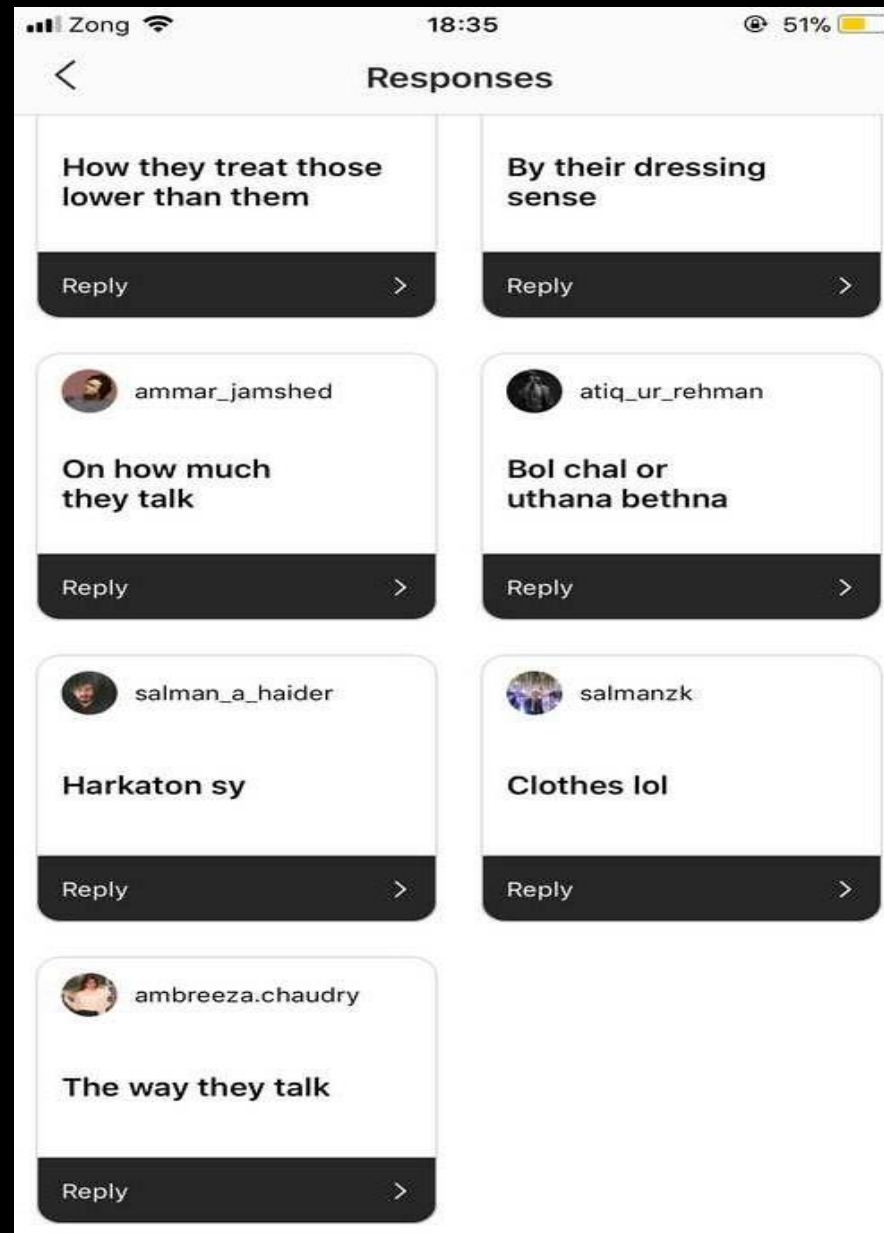

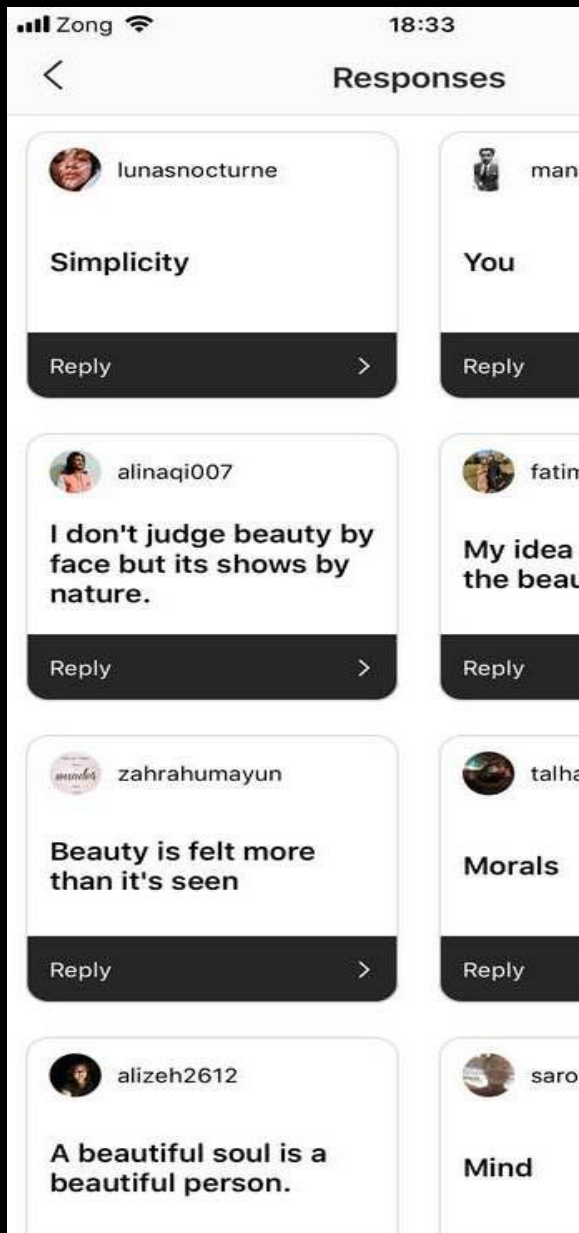

Harkaton sy

Reply

salmanzk

Clothes lol

Reply

Conclusion

Most of the people see Perception of beauty

- In way of dressing/carrying themselves.
- What sort of behavior they have.
- How they treat people.

Replication in hand embroidery

Design Extraction

Fabrications

Technique

- Embroidery

Material

- Plastic mesh

Technique

- Embroidery
- Marbling

Material

- Silk fabric
- Cotton fabric
- Felt

Design extractions with Fabrication

Techniques

- Hand embroidery
- Digital printing

Material

- Organza
- Cotton polyester threads
- Silk threads

Techniques

- Hand embroidery
- Machine embroidery
- Arr work (running stitch, back stitch, stem stitch)
- Digital printing

Material

- Suede
- Cotton polyester threads
- Silk threads
- Tilla

Final series of designs

Fabrications

Techniques

- Hand embroidery
- Arr work (running stitch, back stitch, stem stitch, French knot)
- Digital printing
- 3D embroidery

Material

- Cotton fabric
- Cotton polyester threads
- Silk threads
- Wool

Techniques

- Hand embroidery (running stitch)
- Digital printing
- 3D embroidery
- Low relief

Material

- Suede
- Cotton polyester threads
- Wool

Techniques

- Hand embroidery (running stitch, scroll, cable stitch, French knot)
- Digital printing
- 3D embroidery
- Mid relief

Material

- Suede
- Cotton polyester threads
- Wool
- Thermopore pipe
- Metallic Wires

Techniques

- Hand embroidery
- Stitches (French knot, scroll, satin, back stitch, chain, couching, threaded back, double cross, cable, chain)
- Digital printing
- 3D embroidery
- Mid relief

Material

- Suede
- Cotton polyester threads
- Wool
- Wires
- Silk thread

Techniques

- Hand embroidery
- Digital printing
- 3D embroidery
- High relief

Material

- Suede
- Cotton polyester threads
- Wool
- Electric Wires

Process

FINAL PRODUCTS

1. Table mats
2. Table runner
3. Cushions
4. Curtains

Table runner

Curtains

Mockups

